Objective : JCI Sapporo develops a region prepared for future super-aging society. JCI Sapporo educates citizens to have them actively engaged in Community Development.

Overview : JCI Sapporo established the “Sapporo Vision” for an ideal Sapporo in order to build a city capable of addressing population decrease, decrease in labor force and regional potential and fiscal deterioration, all of which will likely occur in the future of Sapporo where the number of super-aged people increase.

The “Sapporo Vision” is: a road map for an ideal Sapporo towards 2030; and a concrete image of a livable city where citizens feel they live in an affluent society.

JCI Sapporo advocated CCRC for Sapporo as a means of realizing the “Sapporo Vision”.

CCRC is a community where elderly people can move in while they are still healthy and can spend their time for life.

This system adopted in Japan is for elderly people who live in urban areas and plays a role in regional revitalization by prompting people to move to non-urban areas.

CCRC for Sapporo adapts Sapporo’s environment to CCRC. CCRC for Sapporo has a function to actively engage in development of the region by: promoting creation of communities centering on residents; and working together with other communities in the region.

This will not make the region a closed place only for elderly people, but can build a system for developing the region by multigenerational cooperation.

JCI Sapporo publicized the “Sapporo Vision” in a regular meeting held for citizens. In the meeting, a seminar was held for understanding the role of CCRC and a panel discussion was held. Katsuhiro Akimoto, the mayor of Sapporo, announced the effectiveness and potentiality of the “Sapporo Vision”. Business entities and university professors supporting welfare and women’s participation in society pointed out issues that Sapporo face based on their expertise in their field, and exchanged opinions for the achievement of the “Sapporo Vision”.

After the regular meeting, JCI Sapporo distributed a total of 670 “Sapporo Vision” booklets to related people and associations, such as citizens, administrative organizations and universities, with whom cooperation will be necessary to achieve the philosophy of the Sapporo Vision.

JCI Sapporo conducted an opinion hearing on the “Sapporo Vision” for related people and associations.

Results : JCI Sapporo provided an opportunity for citizens to reconfirm the value of Community Development.

By holding the regular meeting, JCI Sapporo increased its awareness of social issues Sapporo will face in the future and deeply recognized the need to address it. It also made the citizens active.

JCI Sapporo distributed "Sapporo Vision" booklets and received responses from related people and associations, such as citizens, administrative organizations, universities and care facilities, stating that they will voluntarily address the issues faced. The citizens thus became active.

JCI Nanao in Ishikawa prefecture has conducted a hearing investigation for JCI Sapporo on the idea and realization process of CCRC for Sapporo. JCI Sapporo received a report to the effect that JCI Nanao was influenced by the "Sapporo Vision" and that it went into action for realization of CCRC for Nanao. The "Sapporo Vision" publicized by JCI Sapporo also influenced areas outside Sapporo.

Recommendations : JCI Sapporo achieved the objectives as follows.

JCI Sapporo provided 211 citizens with an opportunity to learn about Community Development. The survey results showed that 91% of them "understood" the idea of the "Sapporo Vision". JCI Sapporo distributed "Sapporo Vision" booklets to related people and associations. In response, they presented specific measures and supplementary opinions for realization of the Sapporo Vision in their respective capacities and expand mutual impact in the future regional development

The following objectives could not be achieved.

JCI Sapporo could not present clearly the possibility of realizing CCRC for Sapporo, because in the questionnaire filled out at the regular meeting, only a small number of participants answered yes to the question of "Do you feel you want to live in CCRC for Sapporo in the future?"

One way to improve this is to build a realistic and concrete plan by sharing awareness through, for example, establishment of a committee by respective administrative organizations, business entities, universities, groups supporting women, etc. JCI Sapporo will need to play a leading role in the sharing of awareness among respective organizations on a continuing basis.
